

Chris Calogeras

Vice President

Chris Calogeras has over fifteen years of experience in executive search, providing talent acquisition services for businesses within the public and private sectors. He has successfully completed searches on both a national and international scope at all levels of management. His functional areas of expertise include commercial, engineering, finance and operational roles for his clients.

Chris's knowledge base within multiple industries gives him a clear understanding of systems, best practices and methodologies to specifically align a client's recruitment needs. He has a proven track record to identify and secure exceptional talent to consistently fit the culture of his clients. A large percentage of his candidate placements have received internal promotions.

Prior to joining CGI (Carmon Group, Inc.), Chris worked for a search firm in Cleveland, Ohio upon his graduation from Cleveland State University. His journey within the search industry began as a researcher for the firm where he developed project roadmaps to serve as an outline specific to each client engagement. As Chris progressed through his career he assumed the role of search consultant and broadened his responsibilities to include business development, full cycle search and new hire training. His search experience includes clients in various manufacturing sectors including: chemical process, steel, plastics, machining, assembly, fabrication, paint, metal finishing and test and measurement.
